Franckiewicz to examine ballot boxes

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Defeated mayoral candidate Vic Franckiewicz will examine Bay St. Louis election ballot boxes Tuesday. Franckiewicz was narrowly defeated by 29 votes in a Tuesday Democratic primary won by incumbent Mayor Larry Bennett.

Official election returns list Franckiewicz with 1,189 votes and Bennett with 1,218.

Franckiewicz Saturday stated, "Late Friday afternoon I requested to examine the ballot box signatures and ballots."

"This is strictly a fact-finding effort to double check the results. I'm not contesting the election or asking for a recount, but I simply want to look at signatures to make sure the right numbers are there," he explained.

Franckiewicz said the Democratic Executive Committee's official vote count last week found one addition vote for both he and Bennett.

The incumbent mayor will face Republican mayoral candidate Joe Buccola in a June 2 general election.

councilman for Ward Four.

The winner of the race will serve for the next four years as there will be no Republican or Independent candidates in the June 2 general election.

A 70 percent turnout of registered voters in Bay St. Louis was reported by City Clerk Eddie Favre.

In a race of five candidates, Seuzeneau led with 258 votes to 144 for Wilkerson. Others in the race were Charles Hirstius, 88 votes; Michael Mercier, 115 votes; and Truman Schultz Sr., 62 votes.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. at Virginia Hall, Christ Episcopal Church until 6 p.m. for Tuesday's run-off.

Seuzeneau, a resident of 203 Union St., is owner and manager of Mark Sheldon Enterprises and Mary Carter Paint Store. He is a graduate of St. Stanislaus and Pearl River Junior College.

Seuzeneau, a Bay native, was Engineering Development Support Organization supervisor at Boeing Company's National Aeronautics and Space Administration Michoud complex in New Orleans for seven years.

He was also an employee of Higgins Industries in New Orleans for eight years as Production Planning Department chief, and also served three years on the Bay St. Louis City Planning Commission.

Wilkerson, a resident of 201 Bay Oaks was born in New Orleans and graduated from S.J. Peters High School. He is employed by Rocketdyne Corporation at NSTL and was formerly Veterans Service Officer for Hancock County.

He has been an active member of Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 for 24 years, having served two terms as commander. He served as president of the OIG Parent Teacher Organization and was also a member of the OIG School Board.

Wilkerson currently serves as treasurer of the St. Stanislaus Band Booster Club and is also past president of the group.

Eddie Favre, city clerk, reports several electors have already voted absentee for the Tuesday run-off and expectations are for a large turnout again on Tuesday.

Favre expressed appreciation to Circuit Clerk Henry Otis in stating, "I

Bay council declares gas leak an emergency

By BRENT MACEY
The Bay St. Louis City Council, during a special meeting Friday, declared a leaking gas line on Julia Street an emergency situation.

The council also agreed Friday to back Mayor Larry Bennett's order to increase police patrolling along downtown Beach Boulevard to enforce all city ordinances, and specifically the loitering ordinance.

"Starting today and tomorrow and also Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, there are going to be foot patrolmen in the area and all city ordinances will be enforced," Bennett said.

Bennett said he has had a number of complaints about the speeding cars, cars parked on side walks, and people loitering in the area.

He referred to the area as a 'problem.' He asked the council to endorse the action to have the loitering ordinance stricken from the book.

Board member James Thriftley III said the action was a 'great idea,' and made a motion to back the mayor 100 percent.

He asked fellow councilmen also to give personal endorsement to the mayor's action.

That motion was seconded by Councilman Wilmer Seymour and unanimously approved.

Councilman Fred Wagner was not present at the meeting.

New accreditation rule backs county school policy

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A Hancock County School District policy will soon be a Southern Association of Colleges and Schools accreditation standard.

The entire district received association accreditation last year and recently received A State Department of Education accreditation.

Paul D. Sills, county superintendent of education, reported at a Saturday School board meeting that a new accreditation requirement effective July 1 will ban on-campus food sales in grades one through eight.

Not one school patron attended the board meeting.

The superintendent noted that last year the board adopted a policy banning food sales in grades one through eight.

"This reinforces our existing policy," he said.

"Before the board adopted this policy Hancock North Central was just a big candy store," Sills stated.

The board took no action regarding a bid submitted to purchase a weight lifting machine.

Sills read a letter addressed to the board from Randy Barge of Randy's Fitness Center in Poplarville offering $500 for the machine. The letter said Head Football Coach Irvin Favre no longer utilized the machine in his training program.

The superintendent confirmed the information and reported Favre's training program now uses barbells.

"If the machine was bought with tax money it has to be declared surplus property and advertised for bids," Sills stated.

Woodrow Ladner, acting board president reinforced Sills' statement.

Sills said, "This all goes back to those people upstairs (the County Grand Jury) with daggers in their eyes. All these items have to be properly bid out."

A recent Grand Jury even the district's procedures for disposing of surplus property.

Sills stated, "This request was addressed to you all, that's why I brought

Hancock jobless rate decreasing

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County's unemployment rate dropped .9 percent in March from the previous month based on a current Mississippi Employment Security Commission report.

The county's 6.2 percent March jobless rate was well below the state's 8.6 percent and national 7.7 percent unemployment rates for the same period.

Some 440 people were unemployed in Hancock during March out of a total work force of 7,110.

Statewide some 88,200 persons were unemployed out of a 1,022,400 available work force and nationally 8,087,000 were listed as unemployed out of 105,405,000 American workers.

In February the county unemployment rate was 7.1 percent and in January was 6.6 percent.

Mississippi's unemployment rate reflected a two-tenths percentage point decrease Security Commission Executive Director O.H. Simmons said last year's March unemployment rate was 6.5 percent.

"The initial unemployment insurance claims totaled 19,013 for March," Simmons reported.

Counties reporting the highest unemployment rates in March were Tate, with a rate of 22.3 percent; Lawrence, with a rate of 19.7 percent; and Jeff Davis, with a rate of 17.0 percent.

Issaquena, Rankin, Oktibbeha, and Forrest counties had the lowest jobless rates for March. Issaquena and Rankin each had a rate of 3.7 percent, Oktibbeha had a rate of 4.6 percent, and Forrest had an unemployment rate of 4.9 percent.

"Some 25 of the state's 82 counties showed an increase in their unemployment rates for March, while 55 reported decreases. The jobless rate in two counties remained the same," Simmons added.

Classes

"If somebody forgets to say 'Yes, sir' or 'Yes, mam,' then the whole class has to do pushups."

"It sounds real strict, but it's really a lot of fun too," she says smiling.

Koopman refers to karate as an art. She also refers to the art as a sport and a science.

"When you mention karate, most people visualize Bruce Lee movies with a lot of people punching and kicking and fighting."

It is a lot more than that.

Koopman explains the discipline and self control are as important as the exercise which accompanies the classes.

She said she trains through a 'Nautilist program'—a program which uses weight lifting machines as opposed to lifting dumbbells.

"I feel really good as a result of the exercising and the karate. I feel in better shape now than I did when I was 18."

Koopman said she was about 17 when she first saw a karate exhibition at her high school.

During that exhibition she witnessed karate experts breaking boards with their hands and feet.

I was really impressed, but I didn't have the ambition to go out and learn until now.

Now, some ten years since her high school days, Koopman too can break boards with her hands and feet.

She explained her classes use plastic boards which snap back together after they are broken.

"It would be too expensive to have to buy boards constantly," she explained. Koopman said they use real boards, one inch thick and made of pine, during actual competition.

She said a one inch board is equivalent to a rib bone, two boards are equivalent to a lower arm bone, and three boards are equivalent to a thigh bone.

"If you can break four boards then you could probably crush a skull," she said.

Koopman said she feels relatively confident when walking alone at night.

"I think most of the problems women have is the way they handle themselves in that situation. If you walk around like you are afraid of being attacked then you almost draw attention and make yourself vulnerable."

"I don't feel I do that now," she said. Weight, according to Koopman also does not really matter with karate.

I think a taller person has a little bit more advantage because they have a longer reach, almost the same as a boxer, the five foot nine inch Koopman said.

"Brute force is not the main factor." Agility and speed play just as important a role. A small person can hit just as hard.

Koopman said she like gymnastics before learning karate.

"I was limited because of my size. Most of the great gymnasts are small," she said, motioning with her hand to about shoulder height.

"I tried rodeo riding too, but I couldn't keep my horse. That was when I was living in New Mexico."

"I guess I just like to stay active. Karate's a lot more rewarding and more exciting than sitting at home at night and watching TV."

Law

then suggested a motion to have the next administration review the loitering law.

That motion was also approved by the council.

Harry Farve, councilman, said, "It will not hurt to have them look at it."

The ordinance, which has been on the books since 1975, the councilmen said, states, "It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to be engaged in prowling, promenadeing, loitering, loitering, or congregating on any of the streets, sidewalks, or in or near any railroad station, park, or any other public place of the City of Bay St. Louis."

The penalty, if found guilty, is a fine of not less than $25 and not more than $50.

Benvenutti said the law could apply to anybody, including two businessmen who happen to come out of the post office and happen to engage in conversation on the street.

Bennett said, "Well, hopefully the policeman will use discretion, and if there is normal conversation then he will not bother them."

He invited the council to go down to Beach Boulevard one of these evenings and view the area.

"It's not a pleasant sight," he said. The gas line under consideration earlier in the meeting runs along Julia Street from Beach Boulevard to Dumber Avenue.

Bennett said the gas line on Julia Street has leaking for some time but there has currently been even more deterioration. He said the Public Service Commission has inspected the area and declared the area a hazard.

Work will involve replacing 2,300 linear feet of gas line and also replacing some service lines, Bennett said.

He stated Donn Murray of Broadway and Seal Engineers estimated the renovation at $32,045.

The mayor stated city crews could not handle a job that size.

The council discussed the possibility of hiring an engineering firm to update a plan for repairing the area which Broadway and Seal Engineers prepared several years ago.

Bill Johnson, superintendent of public works, said the old plan required the use of steel pipe and an update would include changing specifications for using plastic pipe.

He said no one in the city was qualified to deal with the plastic pipe or supervise that operation.

He stated he had been trained in that area but could not supervise because the time situation involved with his job.

Johnson said he could draw up the specifications for changing the plans and council agreed not to hire an engineering firm for that purpose.

They approved a motion to have Johnson rework the plans and also agreed to pay overtime cost for his efforts.

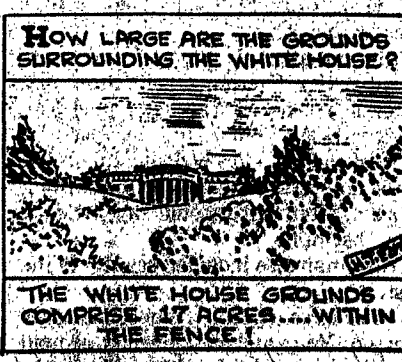

The council then agreed to advertise for contractors once in The Daily Herald May 19, and once in The Sea Coast Echo May 21.

The council directed Johnson to complete the specifications as soon as possible so bids can be opened May 26.

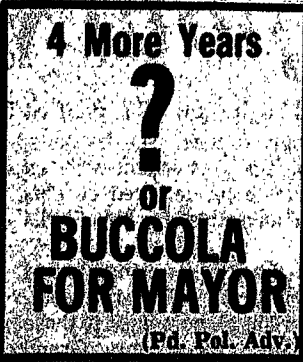

The councilmen also said they would talk to area business qualified to do the gas line work to inform them of the bidding.

Groundbreaking launches 3rd phase of NORDA development

Ground was broken Monday, marking start of construction on a $600,000 addition scheduled for completion in December to house the Physical Oceanography Branch of the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity.

The 6,000 square foot wing to NORDA's Bldg. 1105 at National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County, is being built by Tilley Constructors and Engineering, Inc. of Gulfport.

Upon completion, the facility will be dedicated to accomplishing the Ocean Measurements Program portion of NORDA's mission.

The primary goal of the program is the measurement of the physical variability of the ocean that occurs in scales ranging from tens of meters to thousands of meters.

Until now, this measurement range has not received much attention from ocean researchers.

Methods of measuring, analyzing and displaying data on this variability are being developed at NORDA, where the 21-member Physical Oceanography Branch is the organizational element primarily concerned with making the ocean measurements and analyzing the results.

This addition is the second phase of a three-part construction program aimed at fulfilling the physical space and facilities requirement envisioned for NORDA when it was established at NSTL five years ago.

The first phase was an 8,000 square foot addition to building 1105 completed in 1979 and dedicated to supporting NORDA's Remote Sensing Program.

The third phase is expected to be a 62,500 square foot separate laboratory building. A design contract has been awarded for that facility and construction is expected to begin in about a year.

Port body considers purchasing locomotive

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Thursday labored under restrictions which might prevent them from bidding for an Amtrak locomotive to be auctioned June 10.

The commission wants the engine for use at the Port Bienville Industrial Park.

Wilson Webre, executive director, informed the commission that Reagan administrative cutbacks in the Amtrak budget have prompted the rail system to sell a number of locomotives and cars.

Currently the cars and locomotives to be auctioned are in Miami, Webre said.

"If anytime is right for purchasing a locomotive, now is the time," he stated. Board member David McDonald agreed, "If we could get a $200,000 locomotive for $20,000 it would be a good deal."

Robert Genin, board attorney, informed the board of a problem in submitting a bid for the locomotive.

"When we purchase something we usually advertise and accept the lowest bid. I don't know if it is legal for us to submit an auction bid," he said.

He said the problem arose one time before and he consulted with attorneys who have been in the legal counseling business for years.

"We all scratched our heads and nobody came up with a solution," Genin said.

The board authorized Genin to call the attorney general and discuss the problem with him, in an attempt to resolve the dilemma before June 10.

Victor Franckiewicz, board member, cautioned the board to use judgement before purchasing the locomotive.

"I think we should evaluate our own ability to decide what we will need in a locomotive. We don't want to by one and then find its not what we need, or the maintenance cost is excessive. We should educate ourselves first on what equipment we need to operate a railroad."

McDonald said a railroad consultant could be hired for that purpose.

He said the consultant could examine the current railroad needs at Port Bienville and project those needs 20 years into the future by studying past growth patterns.

The type of locomotive also could be determined, McDonald said, and the study also could include the load capability of the track to determine the correct size and type of engine.

Franckiewicz said Friday the locomotive currently being used at the site is a diesel engine in 'good shape,' but said the number of cars on the site have increased and a larger locomotive will be needed in the future.

In other business, the board: —Approved a contract to lease nearby lands needed as a spoils site for material dredged from canals at Port Bienville.

The contract calls for payment of $100 per acre for the first three years and includes an option at the end of three years for payment of a flat $1,000 with an additional $200 per each acre needed for the spoils at that time. Franckiewicz said Friday there is a good possibility the federal government will pay for the dredging cost;

—Authorized a contract with architect Fred Wagner for his services needed in constructing or repairing a roof on an airplane hangar at Stennis International Airport. The contract calls for an architect's fee of eight percent of construction costs;

—Approved advertising for bids on repair of a roof on the Bayou Cadet Marina.

—Approved purchase and installation of a water pump and water tank at Bayou Cadet Marina for $664. The old pump burned out and was stolen, Webre said;

—Authorized a second Economic Development Administration payment of $25,291 to Carter and Mullings Construction Company for road work at Stennis International Airport;

—Approved a $7,147 interest payment to Economic Development Administration;

—Approved increasing the auditing fees to Moore and Powell from $4,000 per year to $7,200 for the 1980-81 fiscal year;

Reappointed James DeBlanc, David McDonald and Ronald Arfines to the budget committee;

—The board went into executive session to discuss a possible new tenant at Port Bienville.

Library urges early reading registration

Every school-age child is invited to take part in the 1981 Summer Reading Program which focuses on an "Animal Track" theme, according to Becky Mitchum, children's librarian.

Pre-registration for the program opens May 25 and continues through June 5 at Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Kiln Libraries.

The program itself will begin June 6 at Bay St. Louis.

June 10 at Waveland and June 12 at Kiln.

"Please come in and pre-register May 25 through June 5 to avoid the rush," she urged.

Help promote the program and win prizes by entering the poster contest. Posters should be 14 inches by 22 inches and should illustrate the summer reading program or its theme of animals.

All posters must be turned in by June 5 to the library where the child is registered.

Prizes will be given at the beginning of the summer reading program at each library.

Each 1981 summer reading participant will receive a bookmark, reading record and a certificate. These materials, as well as a colorful poster for libraries, were designed by Kenny Weaver of Greenwood.

An annual event in Mississippi, the reading program is coordinated by the Mississippi Library Commission.

I want to thank you, the voters of the 4th Ward, for putting me into the runoff election on TUESDAY, MAY 19th. I ask you now for your CONTINUED SUPPORT, and to those of you who voted for other candidates, I need your HELP, SUPPORT, and most of all YOUR VOTE.

COUNTY ROADS
A BALLOT BOX ISSUE

Mississippians may soon have an opportunity to rid the state of an expensive, wasteful, and inefficient habit if the Governor signs a compromise highway bill which won an overwhelming vote in the state Legislature.

A provision in the highway measure requires counties to operate under the county unit system of road administration after 1984 in order to get state aid road funds, unless a county's board of supervisors votes affirmatively to exempt itself from the requirement.

The provision requires supervisors to make that decision on or before July 1, 1983, and in each succeeding four years. Their decision could have strong bearings on elections, especially in those counties where voters recognize the efficiency and desirability of the county unit system.

The legislative session is not the first in which a county unit measure has been considered, but it is the first in which opposing forces have failed to keep the matter deadlocked in committee.

Rather than mandate a county unit system, the Legislature put the matter in the hands of the boards of supervisors, and ultimately in the hands of the citizenry. Mississippians now need to take a close look at whether or not they can continue to fund five separate road systems in each county, with each system having its own road crew, set of expensive equipment, and method of maintaining county roads.

A multitude of studies conducted by and for the state Legislature — along with studies by the Mississippi Economic Council and other organizations — have all pointed out that the county unit system of road administration is the most efficient, cost effective method of maintaining county roads.

After 1984 the voters of each county will be faced with the question of whether or not they want a dollar's worth of service for every tax dollar they spend or if they want to continue the wasteful, inefficient beat system of road management now in existence.

SMALL IS BIG

The Mississippi Employment Security Commission reports that 95 percent of all private employing units (businesses) in the state employ less than 50 persons.

Commission reports reveal that this 95 percent represents some 46,000 businesses and firms, while those businesses or firms employing more than 50 persons number some 2,500. These figures are indications that small business is big business in Mississippi, and that the state should strive toward making the business climate for smaller firms conducive to development and expansion.

But, a recent Mississippi Economic Council report indicates otherwise — that small business has had to "make it on its own" without the benefits that many larger concerns receive.

The larger business interests, looking to locate or expand in the state, can and do receive state benefits, including several types of industrial revenue bonds and exemption from ad valorem taxation.

Both incentives are legally possible for small business but are not practical or practiced. Bond issues, to be economically feasible, should be for at least $250,000, which is beyond the range of most small businesses. Also, while local governments can provide tax exemptions, the actual provision of these exemptions is the exception rather than the rule for small concerns.

MEC makes the following recommendations to promote a healthy business climate for small business:

—The Governor, the Legislature, and all state and local officials should cooperate in efforts to maintain a state and local business climate conducive to the development and growth of small business.

—Governments at state and local levels should support and encourage the development of small, locally owned businesses; and state government should offer programs of assistance to small business as deemed necessary and appropriate in consultation and cooperation with small business owners and operators.

—State and local governments should make available to small, locally owned businesses the same incentives as those offered to firms moving into the state.

—State and local governments should eliminate unnecessary or inappropriate statutes, ordinances, rules, and regulations which discourage the development or expansion of small business.

—Continuing efforts should be made to evaluate and to consolidate those agencies and activities of state government which are designed to encourage small business development.

—The small business loan program of state government should be evaluated to determine effectiveness relative to

NEWS
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

The Mississippi White House Conference on Aging will be held at the Jackson Regency Inn May 18-20.

The state conference, which is sponsored by the Mississippi Council on Aging, will allow approximately 200 pre-selected delegates and observers to discuss solutions to problems confronting older adults in Mississippi.

The state conference delegates will hear experts on aging and meet in workshops to discuss economic security, social support systems, living arrangements, education and training opportunities and health care for older Americans.

"Hopefully, the workshops will not be limited to a discussion of the obvious," said Jay C. Moon, executive director of the Mississippi Council on Aging. "We hope to get new ideas and suggestions for policies and find new ways of approaching the delivery services."

Registration for the conference will be held from noon until 6 p.m. on May 18 and from 8 a.m. until noon on May 19. Participants will be responsible for the cost of all meals, and hotel accommodations.

The keynote speaker for the Monday night opening session at 7 p.m. will be Dr. George Maddox, a Duke University professor of gerontology. Dr. Maddox, a native of McComb, is a member of the White House Conference on Aging advisory committee.

Five workshops will be held on Tuesday with each delegate having the chance to attend two sessions. Dave Rust, executive director of the White House Conference on Aging, will address the group luncheon on Tuesday. Dr. Aaron Henry, chairman of the National Caucus and Center on the Black Aged and member of the Mississippi House of Representatives, will speak Tuesday evening.

Findings and recommendations of the delegates will be reported at a plenary session on Wednesday morning, and the conference will end with a luncheon address by Gov. William Winter.

The state conference is a prelude to the national White House Conference on Aging scheduled in Washington, D.C., November 30 - December 4. Proposals developed in conferences throughout the nation will be presented at the national conference and used to recommend policies on aging needs.

Ten delegates from the state conference will represent Mississippi in Washington. Recommendations of two previous White House conferences, held in 1961 and 1971, resulted in actions by state, local and national officials to devise laws and programs that address the needs of older Americans.

For additional information concerning the state White House Conference on Aging, persons may contact the Mississippi Council on Aging, 802 N. State Street, Suite 301; Jackson, MS 39201; 354-6590.

Women smokers--an equal opportunity tragedy

The signs of an epidemic of smoking-related diseases are appearing among women.

Mrs. Allen Edwards of Indianola, president of the Mississippi Lung Association, said her group is offering a plan, "Freedom from Smoking," to help reverse this trend in Mississippi.

"More women than men now suffer from chronic bronchitis, with 4.1 million American women — compared with 3.4 million American men — who have chronic bronchitis."

The rates of lung diseases in women lagged behind those of men because women took up the cigarette habit at least 25 years later than men did.

According to the 1980 Surgeon General's report, the death rate due to chronic obstructive lung disease among women has grown.

The shocking fact is that the lung cancer rate for women has increased 500 percent during the last 20 years.

While the rate of increase of lung cancer in men is slowing, the rate of increase in women is accelerating.

If present trends continue, the rate of deaths from lung cancer among women will overtake the death rate from breast cancer, which has been the chief cancer killer in women.

Furthermore, the report points to the fact that this overtaking will happen soon — in the early 1980's.

"This is especially tragic," Mrs. Edwards stated, "since at least 85 percent of lung cancer is related to smoking. These deaths could be prevented if women did not smoke."

Cigarette smoking has now been pinpointed as a cause of cancer of the larynx, oral cavity, esophagus, and urinary bladder in women as well as in men.

In women, smoking is also associated with kidney cancer.

Women smokers, compared to women who do not smoke, suffer more chronic sinusitis, acute conditions such as influenza, peptic ulcer disease and arteriosclerotic heart disease, Mrs. Edwards added.

Other dangers concern women who smoke and use oral contraceptives containing estrogen.

These findings are stressed in the most recent Surgeon General's report. Extra dangers involve cigarette smoking for pregnant women.

Maternal smoking directly retards the rate of fetal growth and increases risk of abortion, fetal death and infant death in otherwise normal babies.

"All the facts are indeed alarming," Mrs. Edwards concluded.

The Mississippi Lung Association is dedicated to preventing and controlling lung diseases for all Mississippians. We especially urge women to consider these latest medical statistics and to decide to quit smoking. Mother's Day, 1981, would be a good day to begin participation in the new Freedom from Smoking in Twenty Days program.

For information on the self-help program to quit smoking, contact the Mississippi Lung Association, P.O. Box 1665, Jackson, MS 39206.

Commission seeks toll rate reduction tariffs

Lynn Havens, public service commissioner of the Southern District reports after two public hearings at which South Central Bell was requesting restructure of special off-premises services, the commission allowed $1.9 million of the $3.8 million of restructure that the Company had requested.

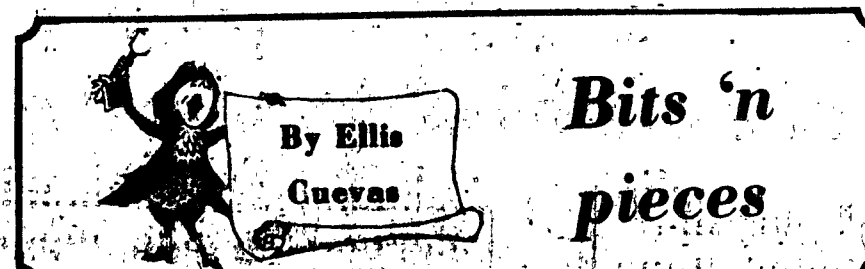

This will affect about two percent of South Central Bell's customers, he added.

Havens further stated that in the same order the commission directed South Central Bell to file tariffs immediately for the reduction of interstate long distance telephone rates in the amount of $1,900,000 which will be beneficial to 750,000 customers served by South Central Bell.

Commissioner Havens said that several parties testified in hearings for and against the restructure of these special services before the commission's determined that the amount the company had requested was excessive and far too drastic.

He further stated that with the realignment of service costs, the $1,900,000 reduction in long distance rates is an area of utmost concern and is a step in the right direction to correct an inequity which has long existed.

Tuesday is run-off election day for the residents of Ward Four, Bay St. Louis.

Some 70 percent of the registered voters in the city are to be congratulated for the participation in Tuesday's primary, and we hope that enthusiasm will hold through the runoff.

Remember, there are only two candidates left out of the five, and whoever is elected Tuesday will serve the people of Ward Four for the next four years as there are no Republicans or Independents qualified for the June 2 general election.

So we urge everyone in Ward Four to get out and vote Tuesday for the candidate of their choice.

It is interesting to note the number of burglaries in Hancock County for the first four months of 1981 has been reduced by a little more than 39 percent over the same 1980 period.

A report from Sheriff Ronald Peterson reports a total of 113 burglaries from Jan. 1, 1980 through April 30, 1980 and a reduction to 68 for the same months of 1981.

We have to commend our sheriff's office for a job well done.

We have written many editorials about drinking and driving and the number of arrests made in Hancock County.

Well, drinking and driving arrests have increased 28 percent for the first four months of 1981 compared with the same period in 1980.

Now these DWI arrests are made by the Highway Patrol, Hancock Sheriff's officers and the Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Departments.

For the first four months of 1980, 49 were arrested for DWI. Records show an increase to 63 for 1981.

It was interesting to note a couple of weeks ago that the Highway Patrol was booking a subject for DWI less than 24 hours after the same subject was arrested by officers on the same charge.

The subject was in jail for several hours and bailed out by a bondsman and apparently purchased some more spirits because on the tester he was drunker the second time than when he was arrested the evening before.

Something is wrong with our system and we hope the new laws which go into effect on July 1 will help matters and get the drunks off our highways and roadways.

Candid Answers To Your Questions
About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I want to advertise, but I can't compete with some of the advertised prices of other stores—particularly the discount and chain stores who always out-advertise me. An Independent Dry Goods Merchant.

Dear AIDGM: I think in the modern marketplace your store would be called a department store.

And you should begin by thinking of it that way.

I'm not sure when dry goods dates back to, but it must be pre-1940. So let's get with it in our thinking and go on to the problem you pose. It is addressed rather fully in a book on newspaper advertising by C. Dennis Schick for the Texas Press Association.

He says the usual tack for managers in your situation is to stick with national brands and advertise the brand names you carry. This way you take advantage of national advertising done by the manufacturers. In almost every instance their promotions are directed toward making a local purchase from a store that carries the brand.

In your advertising, feature prices of nationally advertised brand merchandise. Customers may think you good brands cost more than they really do.

Stress reasons, other than price, why your customers like your store. It may be credit, service or a friendly atmosphere.

Develop a character or image for your store. Advertising can help you reach this objective. Up-grade the impression of your store with local advertising.

Another advantage you might want to stress is that you almost always have the merchandise you sell regularly in stock. As you know many discounters simply depend on getting a good price when they buy goods and quite often may be out of many lines for quite long periods of time.

So don't give up, just because some of the discounters seem to be offering better prices. You have other things to offer that are equally, if not more, valuable to many of your local prospects.

and Delbert Seay recovered over 120 marijuana plants in the Lakeshore area Friday.

Peterson said, "We had the plants under surveillance for a period of time and felt it would be best to bring the suspects in. This is the growing season and we have been spending a lot of time in the woods checking on marijuana cultivation."

A review of the jail docket revealed four arrests during the past week on minor drug charges.

A 17-year-old juvenile has been sentenced to serve at Oakley Training Center in Raymond, according to Seay, for the threatening an 88-year-old Catahoula Community resident with a pair of scissors.

Seay said the incident occurred earlier this month and reported that the youth, after threatening the woman, took $7 cash and an old coin.

Seay stated, "The juvenile took an old coin from the lady and we traced it down to a Picayune coin shop. It was given to the lady by her father."

"The youth was tried in last week's youth court and sentenced," Seay added.

The confiscation of the marijuana plants was made with the cooperation of some concerned citizens the investigators added.

Peterson emphasized, "We are concentrating our efforts on drug violations and plan to take more time on stake-outs."

Fibrosis chapter schedules fund drive

Mrs. June Dearman of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Robert Lord of Pearlman have been named by the Mississippi Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation as chairmen of the annual "Breath of Life" Campaign in Hancock County. These chairmen will each lead volunteers in their own community to organize a Bike-A-Thon or special events to raise funds to support research and care programs for children affected by Cystic Fibrosis. The majority of Bike-A-Thons and special events are scheduled to be conducted during March, April and May 1981.

"When someone in your community invites you to sponsor them in this year's Bike-A-Thon or to help with their special event, please be generous. Your dollars provide the Breath of Life for millions of children who suffer with lung disease," Dearman said.

Slidell dinner theater presenting sex farce

Minacopelli's Dinner Theatre production of "Boeing-Boeing," a classic of the dinner theatre circuit "Boeing-Boeing," opens tonight at the Slidell restaurant for a six week run. The play, a comedy, concerns itself with the fortunes and misfortune of one Bernard, a bachelor who has managed to contrive the perfect set-up, not one but three fiancées.

Each is a beautiful airline stewardess (French, German, and American respectively) and each is employed on such a schedule that each stays at Bernard's apartment two days a week. Presumably, on the seventh day he rests. Into this delightful game of "musical stewardesses" wanders Robert, Bernard's friend.

With a change in the airlines' timetables and schedules, all stewardesses descend on Robert's apartment at one time, and Robert finds himself trying to bail his friend out of an impossible situation.

Here "The plot thickens" and the fun starts. "Boeing-Boeing" ran for five years in Paris and three in London and is considered a classic example of the "sex farce" in the jet age. Playing the role of the conniving Bernard will be Minacopelli favorite Jack Scott.

Last seen as the beleaguered Paul Bratter in last season's success, "Barefoot in the Park," Jack will be making his fifth appearance on the Slidell stage.

His friend and erstwhile savior, Robert, will be played by another established Minacopelli's star, Matt Borel, last seen as the inept warlock in "Bell, Book and Candle."

The three aeronautical "fiancées" will be played by Cindy de Ben, Elizabeth Mialaret and Susan Shumate. Cindy convulsed audiences as the greedy lead in last season's "Three Goats and a Blanket," while Elizabeth and Susan won acclaim for their roles in "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running" and "Move Over Mrs. Markham."

The role of Bertha, the long-suffering and cynical housekeeper, will be played by Clare Moncrief, long a local favorite.

The play is directed by Ron Gural, with Technical direction by Bob Kearney.

Performances are Thursday through Saturday at 8:30 with a buffet dinner preceding at 6:30 p.m. and a Sunday matinee at 2:30 p.m. preceded by a 1 p.m. buffet.

For information and reservations, call 524-7455 in New Orleans, and 643-9671 in Slidell.

TAKING NOTE—Workers at the Waveland Wastewater Plant from left, Ethel M. Schott, lab technician and Jean Crump Longo, lab supervisor, recently spent a week in Jackson at a workshop sponsored by the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control for wastewater treatment plant operators. During the workshop the operators were taught the rules and regulations of local, state and federal agencies involved in wastewater management, along with laboratory procedures used in operating wastewater treatment plants. The women and Tom Anthony, operator and trainer for the bureau, watch Meredith Bell, also from the bureau, conduct a test during the workshop.

The Squires program revolves around spiritual, civic, cultural, social, athletic, service and membership activities.

The Columbian Squires will have their own organization, electing their own officers, and developing their own programs.

This is a rare opportunity for leadership training and experience for our future Knights of Columbus.

Any young men ages 13-18 years who are interested in joining, please call Brother Ed Frloux, 467-5018.

The Ladies Auxiliary, Pere Le Duc Council 1522, held its first re-activation meeting Thursday night at the K C Hall.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, June 17.

Earlier it was mentioned that all Catholic Women were eligible for membership, but in fact only Catholic wives, daughters, mothers and sisters of living or deceased Knights of Columbus are eligible for membership.

The ladies are already working on several projects which will be soon announced in this column.

Announcements:

1. Regular meetings are scheduled May 18, June 1, and June 15. Elections in the making, please attend.

2. Reservations are being accepted for a retreat at Manresa, Oct. 15-18. Anyone interested should call Brother L. J. Gelis, 467-2807. There is no charge and transportation can be arranged, if desired.

The Spinal Column

BY
WILLIAM L. POWELL, D.C.

Low Back and Hip Pain

Many times throughout the year, a patient with low back or leg pain comes to the office with a diagnosis of "strain" or "sprain" already made. Generally heat, braces, medications and traction have already been applied without giving any lasting relief. Our continued success in treating these cases stems mainly from our careful evaluation of any pelvic misalignments and of course, proper treatment (once the true problem is identified.)

Falls and accidents can easily influence the pelvis and often if symptoms arise following an accident, proper examination and treatment may well avoid present and future problems.
